Is there a potential language below language? ...below consciousness? ...beyond the sign? What are the post/para-human potentials for language beyond linguistic signification, below the level of consciousness? What can the subconscious communicate, and what might such communication look like?

Performing Hypo-linguistics is a performed art installation that utilizes brain-wave sensors to push the boundaries of performance interface, live collaboration, and audience/performer relations. Through its cyborg/post-human based approach to collaborative performance, the work proposes a language beyond language as well as the potential for subconscious communication between individuals.

After Kruger, 2015

Tumblr blog: <https://afterkruger.tumblr.com>

No corner of fandom is safe from Kruger-ization!

This tumblr re-imagines the early work of artist Barbara Kruger in terms of contemporary meme production and digital distribution. The “after” then, in the title, refers both to an “homage” as well as the temporal reality that this work is only possible after Kruger’s work.
